Community Standards

We're so glad you're considering joining the Creatives Book Club! This group is designed to be a welcoming, encouraging space for artists, writers, makers, and anyone exploring creativity. To help create a positive experience for everyone, here are a few simple expectations:

Come as You Are: You don't need to have everything figured out—or even finished the book. Whether you've read every page or just a few, your voice is welcome.

Participate When You Can: We know life is busy. There's no pressure to attend every meeting. Join us when it works for your schedule—whether that's in person, on Zoom, or both.

Be Open and Respectful: Everyone is at a different place in their creative journey. Please listen with curiosity, share kindly, and respect different perspectives and experiences.

Engage in the Conversation: You're encouraged (but never required) to share your thoughts, ideas, and experiences related to the reading and creative prompts.

Be Willing to Try: Some meetings may include simple creative exercises. Give them a try! The goal isn't perfection—it's exploration and growth.

Support One Another: This is a community. Encourage others, celebrate creativity, and help create a space where people feel safe to share.

Above all, this book club is about growing creatively together. There's no "right way" to participate—just show up, be yourself, and enjoy the process.
